Domestic Violence: The Incident, the Victim, and the Abuser

This is an interactive training on not only domestic violence patients but the incident, victim, and abuser. This class provides education and documentation training on domestic violence and strangulation, the psychology of the victim and abuser, and the safety concerns for all medical treatment personnel. The CDC reports women who talk to healthcare providers are 2.6 times more likely to leave an abuser. This training is for all medical staff as it covers the dynamics of the environment YOU are now a part of.
